Big Telly

Our Resident Theatre Company

Formed in 1987, Big Telly is the longest established professional theatre company in Northern Ireland and we are delighted that their 'home' is now at Flowerfield Arts Centre.

2017 is the 30th year of Big Telly. Since 1987, we have continued to change and develop whilst still retaining our recognisable style and ethos. When we started, we just made plays. Now we work with more people, artists and places than ever before, across many more artforms and in a huge variety of ways. We use the arts to envision new futures through activities such as activating a public space, animating a community or sparking redevelopment and regeneration.

Recently we've made a photography project, an exhibition of mechanical sculpture, a faerie trail through a park, an audio trail to animate heritage sites...

We make invisible theatre projects where dozens of actors are planted in schools simultaneously to confront young people with an issue, multisite games where teams navigate entire towns undercover, large scale participatory projects like Trade Secrets creating 30 small arts installations each representing the history of a local business, for which we were delighted to win two Arts and Business awards. We're enormously proud of our creative shops project building genuine and surprising creative partnerships between artists and communities in places and ways you'd least expect.

And we still make plays. Plays that tour the UK, Ireland and internationally – from Portstewart to Paisley, from Ballycastle to Belgrade, Cushendall to Cardiff, Dunluce to Denmark, Limavady to Leicester and from Torr Head to Taiwan.

Master of his Craft:

Meet Adam Frew, Ceramicist

Internationally renowned ceramicist Adam Frew has been a craft studio resident at Flowerfield Arts centre since 2008 when he first completed a two-year placement via Craft NI's "Making It" programme.

After completing his term with "Making It" he opted to remain with us, where today he continues to teach and develop his trademark one-off pots and functional works in porcelain. He has now made his home in the Borough and is regarded as one of the many valued professional creatives working in the Causeway Coast community.

Adam's work has attracted an international clientele and he exhibits throughout the UK and Ireland. His work is held in public collections at Mungyeong Ceramic Museum, South Korea, the Arts Council on Northern Ireland, The Law Society of Northern Ireland and the University of Ulster, Belfast, to name a few.

You can find out more about Adam's work by visiting www.adamfrew.com

"My work centres on the potter's wheel. Traditional eastern forms inspire me, but spontaneity as a means of personal expression is key to my work. The exuberant action of throwing is enhanced by a continued experimentation through process, form, and colour. Mark Making is gestural and intuitive, sometimes relating to form or the process of making the exuberant action of throwing and enhancing by a continuing experimentation through process, form, and colour." Adam Frew, Ceramicist.

"The ceramist Adam Frew is renowned for his handcrafted white porcelain "scribble pots," which are inspired by traditional Eastern forms and the idea of conveying energy and movement through the act of throwing. For the Heal's showcase, his signature mark-making can be seen in smaller form on a series of stacking vessels with lids — part of his Functional 1 collection — each of which is decorated with cobalt blue sketch-like lines. They're simple, beautiful and useful!" The New York Times Style Magazine.

Cybertage - Gary Shaw

23 September- 28 October

Admission Free

Gary Shaw describes his digital imaging work as a visual commentary on the socio-political malaise in Northern Ireland and beyond. His work celebrates purpose over process and embraces pastiche and nostalgia through subtle and oblique visual metaphors that offer a heightened, distorted and thought provoking view of the world.

There are messages in the air, a closeness like the kind that comes before a storm, a listening, a holding of breath.

It is summer, 1898, on the small island of Rathlin and the place is alive with gossip. Two strangers have arrived from the mainland, laden with mysterious radio equipment, and the islanders are full of talk. For Nuala Byrne, abandoned by her family for the New World and trapped in her marriage to the island's ageing tailor, the prospects for adventure are bleak. But when she is sent to cook for Marconi's men and is enlisted, by the Italian engineer Gabriel, as an apprentice operator, an enthralling world of new knowledge begins to open up for her. The Watch House is a gripping story about the power of words to connect us, and the power of suspicion to drive us apart.

Bernie McGill's first novel, The Butterfly Cabinet, was published in 2010 to widespread acclaim. Julian Fellowes, creator and writer of Downton Abbey, named it his novel of the year in the Guardian, writing: 'McGill has the ability to enter the brain and heart of her characters.' Being a local resident as well as our creative writing tutor, we are delighted to host this launch of Bernie's wonderful second novel, The Watch House.

Eimear O'Callaghan is the author of the highly successful memoir, Belfast Days: A 1972 Teenage Diary. During a 30-year career in journalism, the Belfast-born writer worked for The Irish News, RTE and, most recently, the BBC. Since 2010, she has been running a media training consultancy, Leapfrog Communications. Eimear is married with a grown up family and lives in Portstewart.

Since 2015 the outreach groups have included sessions in Ballycastle, Cushendall, Ballymoney, and Limavady.

This is part of a very exciting partnership between Streetwise Circus and Causeway Coast & Glens Borough Council who will deliver the Aurora Project over a three year period. The pilot project took place in 2015. CCGBC is one of only three Councils across the region who are taking part. The project is funded by 'Spirit of 2012' whose vision is 'People empowered to get out, be involved and feel better'.

This project aims to offer the chance for people from marginalised groups including older people, people living with disabilities or mental health problems, the opportunity to learn new skills meet new people and above all, have fun. Maximum spaces 25. All attendees must be accompanied by appropriate supervision. Advance booking is required. To book please contact Community Arts Engagement Officer Shauna McNeilly on
